THIRD TRIAL FOR THAW IS FEARED

JURY SAID TO BE HOPELESSLY DIVIDED.

LOCKED UP FOR THE NIGHT

RUMOR THAT NO AGREEMENT WILL BE REACHED.

COURT'S INSTRUCTIONS CLEAR

Justice Dowling Declares Burden to Prove Sanity of Defendant Rested Upon Prosecution—Jurors Ask for All Exhibits in the Case.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—After waiting for nearly 12 hours for the jury to report, Justice Dowling, shortly after 11 o'clock tonight, ordered the doors of the jury room locked for the night, and adjourned court until 10:30 a. m., when he will hear any report they have to make.

The rumor persisted through the evening that the jurors were hopelessly divided, eight to four. Mr. Littleton, of the defense, expressed the belief that the majority of the jury favored a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity, and when he left for his home, was still hopeful that a decision eventually would be reached. District Attorney Jerome said:

"Nobody can tell what a jury will do, so what is the use of speculating."

Thaw retired disconsolately to his cell in the Tombs. He expressed the fear that a third trial would be necessary. This was the general opinion held by the court attaches. The attorneys in the case were deeply disappointed by the trend of affairs, as everyone hoped that some definite conclusion might this time be reached.

Mr. Jerome would not discuss the probability of a third trial, but said if there was one it might be in some other jurisdiction of the state than in New York county.

Burden Rested With Prosecution.

The twelve jurors retired at 11:40 a. m., after listening to the charge from Justice Victor J. Dowling, who sought to impress upon them that the burden to prove the sanity of the defendant rested upon the prosecution throughout the trial and declared that if from all the evidence in the case the jurors entertained a reasonable doubt as to his sanity, the defendant was entitled to the benefit of the doubt. At the same time he pointed out the provisions of the statute, which provides that the only persons excused from criminal responsibility are those who suffer from such a defect of reason as either not to know the nature or quality of the act, or not to know that the act was wrong.

"Some may hold that this is too hard a test," commenting [illegible] the law. "It is clear, explicit and reasonable. Mark you that the law says a 'defect of reason,' and I must instruct you that a defect of reason is not an opinion a man may hold as to the justice or correctness of his own acts or an opinion that the laws of the land are wrong. Hatred and revenge are not insanity. Most crimes are committed from just such motives as these."

Mrs. William Thaw, her son Josiah and her daughter, Mrs. George L. Carnegie, and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw were in the court room while Justice Dowling read his charge. From the moment the first words came from the bench until the jury had filed out to begin its deliberations the court room doors were locked and no one was allowed to pass in or out.

Jury Desires Exhibits.

As the jury was about to leave the box, Justice Dowling asked if they desired any of the exhibits in the case. Foreman Gremmels replied that the jury would like to have them all. Thaw was compelled to stand and nod his formal assent to this action.

The defendant listened to the judge's charge, the reading of which occupied just 40 minutes. The fact that the jury desired to examine the exhibits was taken to indicate that they would [illegible] some time at their deliberations.

While on the subject of reasonable doubt, Justice Dowling said the doctrine applied as well to the grade of crime as to the question of innocence or responsibility. Knowledge of the nature or quality of the defendant's action includes the issue of whether or not he knew he was firing a loaded pistol. The defendant had a right to expect the benefit of the doubt as to this as well as to other material issues.

The trace of insanity in collateral branches of the [illegible] family, Justice Dowling said, had a proper place [illegible] and was worthy of [illegible] under the laws, and then [illegible] that the jury [illegible] not guilty [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] you will [illegible] the ground of the [illegible] at the time of the [illegible] of the [illegible] In any other [illegible] you will [illegible] the degree."

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—That no necessity exists for a reduction in the prices of [illegible] made, was the general understanding arrived at by representatives of manufacturers of pig iron, iron and steel, at a meeting held in this city yesterday. No agreement for maintenance of prices was made or suggested, but the belief was expressed by all those present that maintenance of prices "would result in benefit to the manufacturers, to their customers and to the employes and to business interests generally." This understanding is the substance of what took place at the conference of 75 manufacturers and purchasers of steel, as given out tonight by Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation.

CYCLONE STRIKES MISSISSIPPI; SIX KILLED.

Strip of Farming Country Three-quarters of a Mile Wide and Several Miles Long Laid Waste.

WESSON, Miss., Jan. 31.—Six persons were killed outright by a cyclone which laid waste a strip of farming country three-quarters of a mile wide and several miles long just north of here today. Three persons were probably fatally injured and many others were slightly hurt when their homes were blown down. A negro, who arrived here about dark, brought news of the storm and an appeal for aid. Three physicians started in carriages for the stricken district. According to the negro's message, the dead are:

MRS. BEN MARTIN and her four small children.

D. MARTIN, fatally injured.

MR. AND MRS. G. M. MADDOX.

Seriously injured:

Bill Allen.

The dead and injured are all white. The storm struck about 4 o'clock this afternoon. It came from the southwest and disappeared into the northeast. At least a dozen homes of white families were blown down.

ADMIRAL EVANS ANCHORS FLEET FOR THE NIGHT.

SHIPS IN DANGEROUS WATERS

Every Precaution Is Taken by Commander of Fleet to Avoid Accident—Preparations Made for Entertainment of the Jackies.

PUNTA ARENAS, Straits of Magellan, Jan. 31, 7 p. m.—The American fleet of sixteen battleships, which entered the Straits of Magellan at 2 o'clock this afternoon, tonight anchored in Possession bay, some 20 miles to the westward of Dungeness point, where the Strait proper begins. This information reached here about 6 o'clock tonight by means of the wireless telegraph. The message said that the fleet would arrive at Punta Arenas at noon tomorrow.

The fleet was off Dungeness point at noon today, according to telephonic advices from that place, but appeared to be scattered on account of a heavy fog, which made the weather very thick at the entrance of the Straits. They were assembled again, however, and entered the Straits, passing Dungeness point at 2 o'clock, proceeding in single file. They were next sighted off Cape Possession which is about 15 miles west of Point Dungeness.

Took No Chances.

This information was communicated by telephone from Cape Possession to Delgada Point lighthouse, which in the same way communicated with Punta Arenas. Possession bay is only a few miles west of Cape Possession and about five miles from the entrance to the first narrows. It affords good anchorage and it is thought here that Admiral Evans decided to anchor the fleet for the night rather than to take any risk in navigating the first and second narrows between Possession bay and Punta Arenas.

The Chilean government tender Casne?, carrying the local government officials and others who are here to greet the Americans, will meet the fleet off Magdalena island. Several private steamers are also preparing to carry excursionists out to meet the battleships. There is much excitement among the inhabitants of this little city, the most southerly on the globe, and much preparation has been made to entertain the visitors during their five days' stay in port.

DISCUSSES NATIONAL ISSUES IN NEW YORK SPEECH.

FIRST POINTED DECLARATION

CLEARLY STATES POSITION ON VITAL MATTERS.

AN ADMIRER OF ROOSEVELT

Praises Chief Executive and His Efforts for the Common Good—Opposes Government Ownership of Railroads—Doesn't Approve Heavy Fines.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Governor Charles E. Hughes, whose nomination for the presidency by the Republican national convention is being urged by the New York committee and other Republican committees in New York state, today made open declaration of his views on national issues and principles.

Until tonight, when he was welcomed by scores of well-known Republicans with a reception tendered him at the Republican club, Governor Hughes has maintained silence on all questions affecting the country, and the definition of his position on federal issues has consequently been eagerly awaited.

Governor Hughes told his hearers tonight that he did not come before them in any spirit of rivalry or self-seeking, and that there are "many Republicans who, by virtue of their character and distinguished services, are worthy of the highest honor the party can bestow."

Is Given Ovation.

The governor was given an ovation when he concluded his speech. Declaring the Republican party was a great party of progress and stability, Governor Hughes, in his speech, commended the administration of President Roosevelt as one which, "to a degree almost unparalleled, has impressed the popular imagination and won the confidence of the people."

The country, he said, was under lasting obligation to President Roosevelt for his vigorous opposition to abuses and for the strong impulse he has given to movements for their correction.

Governor Hughes asserted his unqualified opposition to government ownership of railroads, but said that regulation of interstate transportation is essential to protect the people from unjust discrimination. As a means of railroad supervision, the governor suggested an administrative board. The governor declared that the Sherman antitrust act should be clarified and be made more explicit, that the law may be made stronger and more effective by being made more definite.

Doesn't Approve of Fines.

"I am not for punishment in the shape of fines upon corporations, except for minor offenses. The burden of fines imposed upon such corporations is either transferred to the public or is borne by the stockholders," declared Governor Hughes.

Revision of the tariff is advised by Governor Hughes, who suggested that the readjustment of schedules be effected by an expert commission, so that the facts be ascertained without delay and that Congress may dispose of the matter in the fairest possible manner.

Governor Hughes declared that he did not believe in arbitrary action, but that the rule of the people be a rule of reason, and every effort must be dominated by a sense of justice.

"We must be patient, impartial and thorough; investigation must precede action; good will must displace passion, and the sole motive must be to seek the truth and do the right," said Governor Hughes.

In the course of his speech, Governor Hughes said:

Since I took office, I have sought to make it clear that I would not become involved in factional strife or use the powers of office to further any personal interest. I am, and have been constantly, solicitous that the administration of the affairs of this state should not be embarrassed by collateral considerations and that every question shall be presented and decided upon its merits, unaffected by suggestion of ulterior motives. For this reason I have avoided gratuitous discussion of questions foreign to my official duty. But when, in justice to those who have honored me with their confidence and to the party, which, as we all desire, should act freely and with full information, it becomes my duty to speak, I have no desire to remain silent. Nor should I in any event care to preserve availability at the expense of candor.

Praise for Roosevelt.

We are contemplating a new administration at the close of one which, to a degree almost unparalleled, has impressed the [illegible] and won the confidence of the people. The country is under lasting obligation to President Roosevelt for vigorous opposition to abuses and for the strong impulse he has given to movements for their correction. Differences of opinion now, as always, exist with regard to the best means of [illegible] problems that are presented. But those who earnestly desire progress and the establishment of our security on its necessary foundation of fair dealing and [illegible] of [illegible] rights, appreciate the great [illegible] he has rendered and the [illegible] of the purposes he has had in view. We shall have, in [illegible] a notable vantage [illegible] attempt to make government the instrument of selfish purpose. The people must constantly be on the alert. Every franchise granted by the people is a privilege justified only by considerations of the public welfare and the conditions of its exercise should be such as to insure the performance of public obligation. There must be no encroachment on the common right for the purpose of serving the interests of the few at the expense of the many.

[illegible] Rate Bill.

I approve the Roosevelt extension of the authority of the interstate commerce commission by what is known as the rate bill, and I believe that the commission should have the most ample powers for purposes of investigation and supervision, and for making rules and orders, which will enable it to deal, to the fullest extent possible, within constitutional limits with interstate transportation in all its phases. What is a just policy. The power of Congress to fix rates for interstate transportation so as to prevent improper discriminations and to compel carriage upon reasonable terms is undoubted.

GOVERNOR CHARLES E. HUGHES.

The Sherman antitrust laws should be clarified and made more explicit. The law may be made stronger and effective by being made more definite. Sweeping condemnation of uncertain meaning do not aid, but rather embarrass the prosecution of those who are guilty of pernicious practices. Combinations and practices in unreasonable restraint of trade, and which menace the freedom of interstate commerce, should be condemned in precise terms. At the same time provisions may well be made for joint agreements, under proper circumstances, as to railroad rates, which should be subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission.

Various means have been suggested—of doubtful validity and still more doubtful utility—to prevent oppression through the conduct of large enterprises and to se-

Dynamite Used in Residence of A. Alexander of C. F. & I.—Family Has Miraculous Escape.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Jan. 31.—The residence of A. Alexander, superintendent of the Frederick mine of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, 20 miles west of this city, was partly wrecked by an explosion of dynamite early today. The explosive had been placed under a bedroom in which three children were sleeping. All the inmates of the house escaped with slight injuries. It is thought the explosion was caused by miners who had been discharged.

Two Italians and one Slav, who were among the 10 miners laid off at the Frederick mine yesterday, were arrested today on suspicion of being implicated in the dynamiting of the Alexander residence. The officers claim to have strong circumstantial evidence against them. Seven other suspects have fled or are in hiding.

SWEARS AT JUDGE MORRIS

IS FORCIBLY RESTRAINED FROM VIOLENCE BY OFFICERS.

SMARTS UNDER TESTIMONY

Man Charged With Grand Larceny, Conducting Own Defense, Has Penitentiary Record on Three Continents—Makes Bad Mess as Lawyer.

Following a torrent of foul language and a threat to kill Detective S. D. Burno, with an attempt at bodily assault on the latter, D. W. Silverhorn conducting his own defense in the district court on the charge of grand larceny, still further made a mess of his case yesterday by hurling an oath at Judge W. S. Morris in reply to the judge's command for him to sit down. The scene was the most sensational ever witnessed in a court room of this city and it was not until Silverhorn felt himself in the grasp of Undersheriff George Dayton and Deputy Sheriff John Schofield that he subsided and consented to sit quiet in his chair.

The character of the man was again made evident as he was being led from the court room to the jail. Passing close to Detective Burno he exclaimed:

Threatens Detective Burno.

"I'll meet you sometime again, oldtimer, and when I do you had better see me first."

During the early part of the trial, which started at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Silverhorn managed to control his temper and showed considerable adroitness and self-possession in cross-questioning the witnesses for the prosecution after Assistant District Attorney Henry Trowbridge had finished bringing out their story.

One of the main witnesses was Barney Miller, the roomer at the St. James hotel, who was robbed of the diamond pin and $275 in cash, and who filed the complaint against Silverhorn. Miller told how he had accused Silverhorn of the theft and had been ordered from the latter's room [illegible] a pistol and how, later he found the gold setting from which the diamond had been removed, while searching the room with Detective Burno. The setting had been hidden in the ceiling where a stove pipe hole had been cut through.

Said He Lost Money.

Miller explained that the cash part of the robbery came through his giving his landlady, Mrs. Culp, Silverhorn's mother-in-law, a check for $275 to cash for him. She gave the check to Silverhorn, who admitted having cashed it, but said he had lost the money through a hole in his overcoat pocket. Burno said that the hole had been cut by a sharp knife. This occurred on September 17 and three days later Silverhorn, with his wife, was placed under arrest by Detective Burno. Frankie Silverhorn, the wife was afterwards released as the evidence tended to show that she was in no way connected with the case. She is now supposed to be in Denver.

Prisoner Loses Temper.

When Detective Burno was called to the stand to testify to a confession made to him by Silverhorn and a promise to restore the diamond and the money if the prosecution was dropped, all the pent-up animosity of the prisoner's nature seemed to burst forth and it was with apparent difficulty that he kept quiet until he had a chance to cross-question the witness.

"In the city jail," said Burno, "Silverhorn offered to return the diamond and the money if we would drop the prosecution and finally offered to do so and take his chances on having the prosecution dropped. In accordance with his request we took him to the St. James hotel to have him locate the stone, but when he got there and found that his wife had left for Denver, he said, 'If Frankie has deserted me I don't give a d—, I might as well go to the pen.'" Burno then corroborated Miller's testimony as to the finding of the setting from which the stone had been removed.

The other defendants in these cases, G. H. Umbsen, W. I. Brobeck, Joseph E. Green and ex-Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz were also present, and, with the exception of Schmitz, who has also pleaded not guilty, they entered pleas similar to that of Ruef.

After the pleadings, on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Cook, the cases of four of the defendants went over until February 5, when they will be set for trial. The case against Schmitz was kept separate and went over until February 11.

Sanderson Was Paid Bills for Pennsylvania State Capitol Building Without Proper Authority.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 31.—More than $3,000,000 was paid to contractor John H. Sanderson for furnishing the new state capitol before his bills began to be approved by the board of public grounds and buildings as required by law. This was brought out at the trial of Sanderson, former State Treasurer Mathues, former Auditor General Snyder and James H. Shumaker, former superintendent of grounds and buildings, in the Dauphin county court today. These bills were put in evidence by the commonwealth, in spite of vigorous objections by the defense, for the purpose of showing the system which the commonwealth alleges was pursued to defraud the state. The admission of these bills opens the way for the introduction of certain other papers and numerous articles of furniture, to which reference is made in the indictment in the case now on trial.

The commonwealth brought down from the capitol and stored in the court house, this afternoon, a wagonload of furniture, which it will offer in evidence when the trial is resumed at

"Of the President's message, if I am entirely honest and frank, I am compelled to say that much of it reads like the ravings of a disordered mind, and other portions, in which appeal is made to class prejudice and excitement, is large with the suggestion of the adroit and cunning, the shrewd but reckless, demagogue.

"The whole message, is his familiar ranting against what he calls 'criminal wealth,' and it proceeds upon the slanderous assumption that so great a percentage of the corporate business of this country is so corrupt as to demand special messages to Congress, popular harangues by the President, and the entire time, ability and effort of Congress in a volume of corrective legislation such as the world has never seen.

Grows Sarcastic.

"It is wrong, a great wickedness, for the Standard Oil company to defend itself, but there is no impropriety in the President's assailing this corporation by name and defaming it and slandering it with all the envenomed influence of his great office, while its cause is still undecided in the higher courts. The square deal has long been a farce, and this inconsistency seems to have escaped Mr. Roosevelt's ethical standard of which he [illegible] so much.

BOTH HOUSES HEAR MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—In his special message to Congress which was read in both houses today, the President reiterates certain of his previous utterances bearing on dishonesty in business, gambling in securities and other matters which usually occupy a prominent place in his utterances.

The special message deals with five main subjects: Labor legislation, federal control of the interstate corporations, stock gambling, a reply to the attacks of the trusts against the administration, and a forecast of the nation's future.

Affecting labor, an employers' liability law should be enacted, employes injured while in the employ of the government should be compensated, and injunction laws should be so amended as to prevent abuses, in the opinion of the President.

Alluding to the probable damage by reform agitation, the President says: "The business which is hurt by the movement for honesty is the kind of business which, in the long run, it pays the country to have hurt."

"Common Gamblers."

On stock speculating, the President makes this pointed declaration: "There is no moral difference between gambling at cards or in lotteries or on the race track and gambling in the stock market."

The message received careful attention on the part of many senators of [illegible] ordered the printing of 10,000 copies.

An unusual and almost unprecedented scene was enacted in the House of Representatives today as the result of the reading of the special message. The urging, by the President, of additional legislation in the matter of relations of labor and capital and of corporations and the public seemed to strike responsive chords.

Storms of Applause.

The vigorous language of the document brought forth storms of applause, [illegible] Democratic side of the House and then on the Republican, culminating in a general demonstration by the entire body. As if in anticipation that something out of the ordinary was going to happen, there was a very full attendance of members. Long after the reading of the message had been concluded it was almost the sole topic of conversation among members on the floor and in the lobbies.

The message, which had for its subject "The Employers Liability Act," was, in part, as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The recent decision of the supreme court in regard to the employers' liability act, the experience of the interstate commerce commission and of the department of justice in enforcing the interstate commerce and antitrust laws, and the gravely significant [illegible] toward the [illegible] and [illegible] recently [illegible] certain heads of great corporations [illegible] it desirable that there should be [illegible] legislation as regards certain of the relations between labor and capital [illegible] between the great corporations and the public.

The supreme court has held the employers' liability law to be unconstitutional because its terms apply to employes engaged wholly in intrastate commerce as well as to employes engaged in interstate commerce. By a substantial majority the court holds that the Congress has power to deal with the question in so far as interstate commerce is concerned.

As regards the employers' liability law, I advocate its [illegible] limiting its scope so [illegible] only to the class of [illegible] the court says it can constitutionally, but [illegible] in this country [illegible] law, the [illegible] will be [illegible] states [illegible] give to the [illegible]

"IT IS BRAVE, AND NEEDED AT THIS TIME."

"All the Friends of Reform Have Reason to Rejoice"—In Line With Democratic Ideas, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Del., Jan. 31.—Wm. J. Bryan tonight issued a statement bearing on the president's message to Congress today. In prefacing the statement, he said he recognized the moral courage of Roosevelt in fighting against the opposition he has [illegible] Wall Street methods, the speaker said it would be a safe bet that after the President's message of today the financiers would see that they could place no dependence on Roosevelt as a friend of the "system."

His statement on the President's message follows:

"It is a brave message and needed at this time. All of the friends of reform have reason to rejoice that the President has used his high position to call attention to the wrongs that need to be remedied. He has discovered the running sore in our national life. He has pointed out the corrupting influence that flow from predatory wealth and from the monopolistic enterprises which have given unearned riches to the few who, by controlling the great industries of the nation, have levied tribute upon the whole country.

"Its warnings are entirely in harmony with the warnings which Democrats have been issuing for more than a decade, and I hope that the Democrats in the Senate and the House will promptly challenge the issues that have been presented by the President.

"There ought to be enough Roosevelt Republicans in the two houses to join with the Democrats and insure some remedial legislation at this session. If there be none, the public ought to know it, so that when the next Republican national convention indorses the present administration the hypocrisy of the party will be understood."

CONDITIONS MUCH IMPROVED

Dealers, However, Proceed Cautiously Preparing for Future Business. Dun's Report.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—R. G. Dun and company's Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

Seasonable weather and a further increase in the percentage of active machinery combined to improve the trade situation, although there is still a large number of unemployed, and dealers proceed cautiously in preparing for future business. Prices of commodities have declined on the whole, yet products of the leading industries are fairly well maintained. Mercantile collections are irregular, despite the ease in the money market.

More iron and steel plants have resumed, and the outlook is brighter, even railway equipment attracting more attention. The situation is better because of the extent to which consumers seek prompt delivery, indicating that the recent season of conservatism has nearly exhausted stocks, and suggesting that when confidence is fully restored, a vast tonnage of deferred business will be placed.

BAD FOR "GRAFTERS"

10 o'clock on Monday. This furniture includes the bootblack stand for which Sanderson collected $1,639 from the state, and paid the subcontractor $125; desks and chairs, upon which Sanderson's profits were $500 and $400. It was testified today that the Sanderson bills were received at the department of grounds and buildings in one batch, some time in March, 1906, and that they had been withdrawn the following day by Snyder, who afterward furnished the superintendent with a certified list.

It was also testified that Sanderson invoices had been kept in a private safe in Snyder's office, while invoices under the general schedule of 1904-05 were kept in the general filing cases of the department.

The commonwealth showed that the warrants for the pay of Sanderson's bills were turned over by the warrant clerk to Snyder, but that all other warrants were mailed direct by this clerk to the parties to whom they were issued. The defense brought out, on cross-examination, that Snyder required a written receipt from the contractor, before issuing him a warrant, and that the warrant clerk had access to the safe in Snyder's office, in which the Sanderson's bills were kept.

The commonwealth expects to close its case next Tuesday. The defense is not yet ready to say how long it will require to present its case. Both sides profess to be satisfied with the results so far. There will be no session of court tomorrow.

$100,000 FIRE IN TOPEKA

Rock Island Station Burning; Structure Seems Doomed.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 31.—The Rock Island station here is burning and seems doomed to complete destruction. The fire started in the attic, probably from an electric wire leading to the clock in the tower. The city fire department is out, but a slate roof prevents efficient work. Only a few of the records were saved. The loss is roughly estimated at $100,000. The building was insured, but the amount cannot be learned here.

NERONI TAKEN TO PUEBLO

CANON CITY, Jan. 31.—Anton Neroni, also known as Anton Bavori, was formally charged with the murder of Mrs. Palmetto, Enrico Buffeli and the two Minichiello brothers today and bound over for trial at the April term of the district court. He was taken to Pueblo and placed in the county jail there for safekeeping.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 31.—A credit of $5,000,000 was received today from New York by the Hungarian Discount and Exchange bank for the account of the Count and Countess Laszlo Szechenyi. Count Szechenyi was marride in New York, January 27, to Gladys, the daughter of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Jan. 31.—R. E. Elston of La Junta, a travelling man, was held up on the public highway by two men, while driving in from Starkville, this afternoon, and relieved of a watch and $25 in money. The men were well dressed and wore no masks. They made good their escape.

DOGS CHECKED FOR GUESTS

From the New York Times.

The Hotel Plaza, at Fifty-ninth street and Fifth avenue, has opened a check room for dogs, especially for the "poms" and the Yorkshire terriers and the black and tans brought by transients, particularly the tea-drinking throng in the late afternoon. The check room is in the main corridor, and is an inspiration of Frederick S. Sterry, the manager. The toy dogs of the women guests are treated with kindness, and so careful is the youthful presiding genius of the Plaza pound that no fond owner need fear that Fifi is exchanged for Fido or that her fully spaniel has been mixed with a bat-eared bulldog from Paris.

The tearoom of the Plaza is patterned after the informal rooms in the Ritz, in Paris, and the Carlton, in London, and with the novel atmosphere of tables and tabourets, the women foresaw corresponding privileges. They believed they could bring their beloved canines to the tearoom. Very soon the strains of Nahan Franko's orchestra, bearing chunks of Puccini's compelling music, were interrupted by barks and growls and cooing pet names.

In fact, one sociable pup would often scrape up an acquaintance with another sociable pup, providing their mistresses were on calling terms. Informal tea is all very well, but the dogs were too aggressively Bohemian. Then Mr. Sterry contrived a solution. Hence the Plaza pound.

"Sammy" is a mild-mannered youth in the opulent livery of the Plaza, and he was installed as custodian of this important checkroom. "Sammy" is young, but he has passed the age when the tweaking of a dog's tail and the sotto voice mandate, "Sick 'em!" are enticing. Never has there been a complaint against "Sammy." He knows when to segregate the lantern-mouthed bulldogs from the dainty Pomeranians. He knows just how the actress' King Charles spaniel must be held aloof from the patrician Yorkshire of the society leader. He is dextrous and fearless when he slips the leash with nickeled tag about the collar of the pet intrusted to his custody.

This plan of action has been reduced to a science. A richly gowned woman laden with sables and with a small dog under her arm, starts for the tearoom. The secret service men have recognized the furry mass as a dog and not as a part of the stole of pelerine. A courteous bellboy approaches the woman with a bow.

"Shall I check the dog for you?" he asks.

"Where?" demands the lady.

"We have a checkroom on this floor for the dogs. They will be safe and comfortable."

The woman usually goes along to insure the comfort of her pet, and when she beholds the benevolent smile of "Sammy" all qualms vanish.

"It was necessary to provide a place for the transient dogs," said Mr. Sterry last night. "We simply couldn't have them running about, and as we realize how deeply attached their mistresses are to them, we have opened a checkroom. There has been no revolt against the checkroom. The boy is careful, and the dogs have bits of carpet on which to lie down. It is so much the fashion for smart women to take their dogs to tea that we have been obliged to make the afternoon comfortable for them. It is simply a case of meeting a modern exigency."

PRETTY NEW YEARS SERVICE

A pretty custom was observed at the midshipmen's New Years eve hop, which was held in the armory at the naval academy. At two minutes to 12 the lights were turned out, the band stopped playing and a bugler stepped out on the ballroom floor and sounded taps. Hardly had the last notes died away when a clock began to strike 12. Miss Badger, daughter of Commander Badger, U. S. N., superintendent of the academy, struck eight bells, the armory fairly blazed with lights, and the class of '08, standing together, sang its class song. As usual, the band played "Home, Sweet Home," and then "The Star Spangled Banner," every couple standing at attention while the national air was being played.

SUSPECT IRREGULARITY

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE BEING INVESTIGATED.

Subcommittee of Joint Congressional Committee on Printing Holds Up Certain Contracts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Representative Landis, chairman of a subcommittee of the joint congressional committee on printing, which is engaged in making an investigation concerning the conduct of the government printing office, today made a statement relative to a development of what members of the committee believe to be an irregularity in that office. The statement recites that under an act of Congress, the public printer entered into a contract with the audit system of New York for the installation of accounts, the audit system receiving $1,650 a week for the work. Mr. Landis continues:

"My attention was called to the charge that the audit system, in addition to this work of installing an accounting system in the government printing office, was furnishing supplies to the government printing office in competition with other bidders, and also was furnishing supplies on which there was no competition.

"I took the matter up with the public printer, and he admitted this to be true, but stated that the matter had not impressed him as being in any way improper. I informed him that I would consider it manifestly improper and it was tacitly agreed that the audit system should be limited to the duties under its contract and should refrain from furnishing supplies to the government printing office either with or without competition.

"Under the statute the joint committee on printing every year receives bids and awards contracts for paper to be used at the government printing office. These bids were opened on January 23, and yesterday the joint committee met to award the contract. A short time before the committee met, it was informed that the Suffolk company, which had put in its bid several times, aggregating about $150,000, was offered by the same gentleman who composed the audit system. I thought it manifestly improper that the bid of any man or company having an office in the government printing establishment or being interested in an office at that place, should be a bidder on any of these paper contracts, or at least have their bids considered without some preliminary investigation. I accordingly called a meeting of the subcommittee of the printing investigation committee and summoned Willet Raynor, who has charge of the audit system work in the government printing office, and took his testimony under oath.

"This testimony was taken in active session and it was of such a character as to justify the subcommittee in holding up the award of all items in which the Suffolk Distributing company was a bidder. The subcommittee will investigate this matter thoroughly. A meeting has been called for tomorrow, and the president of the Suffolk Distributing company has been asked to appear. I will say further, that in view of the charges that have been made relative to the purchase of supplies in the government printing office, the subcommittee shall go into the matter thoroughly, deeming this fair, not only to the government, but to Mr. Stillings, the public printer."

EASY TO GET DRINKS.

From the New York Globe.

There is a man infesting the Great White Way who is coining money on the knowledge that it is easier to get money to buy drink than to buy food. He is well dressed and has a look of general prosperity.

"I'm just getting over a [illegible] night," he tells each man he stops, "and I need a drink to beat the [illegible]. Lend me 15 cents."

TAKING DOGS TO CHURCH

"Once every year, on St. Hubert's day, one may see hundreds of dogs in the cathedral of Notre Dame, Brussels. At the huntsmen's mass on that day the owners of hunting dogs take the animals to church with them, and for a short time the sacred edifice becomes a dog show place," says a writer in a Berlin paper. "To heighten the effect, all the worshipers attend in hunting costume, and the bugle plays an important part in the musical service. When the last celebration took place, on November 3, a stranger in the city, who was staying at one of the large hotels near the place, strolled toward the cathedral and took with him a pet spaniel. 'Every dog has his day,' he said, 'and this is it.' At the church entrance two pointers growled at the little dog, and did it so fiercely that the little fellow turned and ran. He was coaxed back, but was again driven away by another large dog. 'The owner took the hint,' says the writer, 'and returned to the hotel with his little pet, convinced that the big dogs looked upon the spaniel as an intruder, that he had no part in the St. Hubert's mass, and that the day was not every dog's.'"

COLDS CAUSE HEADACHE

WHOEVER HEARD OF ONE?

"Whoever heard of a church changing its denomination?" asked the gray headed man. "I never did. Individual members may change, but the church, the material structure, goes on the principle of once a Presbyterian—or whatever its particular creed—always a Presbyterian. The founders of churches have very positive ideas in that respect. When they grow tired of the old building and get ready to move into a more modern structure, they are willing that the old church be used as a stable, a warehouse, a factory, anything, in fact, of a utilitarian nature, but they positively refuse to let it be turned into a place of worship for some other denomination. I have in mind now a church in first-class condition that was vacated not long ago by a band of Presbyterians. A congregation of Methodists wished about that time to build in that very neighborhood. Somebody of non-sectarian bias suggested that as the Presbyterian church and parsonage were in excellent condition, it might be a good idea to sell outright to the incoming Methodists. This proposition, however, was rejected with scorn by both congregations, each declining to profit by the temporal needs of another sect."

THE MAN AT THE THROTTLE

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

ATTELL DEFEATS NEIL

FORCES HIS SECONDS TO THROW UP SPONGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Abe Attell, champion featherweight of America, tonight gave Frank Neil of this city such an unmerciful beating that the latter's seconds, fearing serious injury, entered the ring in the thirteenth round and threw up the sponge as a token of defeat. In the first six rounds Neil scarcely landed a blow on his clever and nimble opponent, while, on the contrary, Attell showered Neil's face with left and right jolts and uppercuts. Only in the seventh and eighth rounds did Neil bring the fight to Attell. Neil protested against the action of his seconds in throwing up the sponge.

DECISIVE GAMES TONIGHT

Honors in Two Divisions of Basketball League to Be Settled.

Two decisive games for the settlement of honors in the City Basketball league are on the evening's schedule at the Y. M. C. A. In Class A, the Y. M. C. A. Intermediates will meet Colorado City High school. Victory for the Intermediates will give them the championship, but defeat will result in a tie. In Class B, the deciding game is between the Y. M. C. A. Seniors and Colorado College. The victorious team will win the championship. There is still a game between the Business Men and the D. and R. Institute [illegible], but both teams are out of the running.

For the championship of the league, the teams winning out in the separate section will arrange a game within a short time.

CHINESE PRESS LAWS.

In consequence of the severe and provocative criticisms which have been appearing in the native papers relative to the proposed foreign loan for the Soochow, Hongchow & Ningpo railway and the Tibetan negotiations, the Pekin government has instructed the government of Kiangsu and the viceroy of the Liangkiang to order the editors of those papers to obey the Chinese press laws, otherwise the editors will be arrested and punished.

I'll kill you in a minute," shouted Silverhorn, livid with rage, as he sprang forward to make good his threat. Burno sprang to his feet, but before Silverhorn had time to strike, he was seized from behind by Deputy Sheriff Schofield and forced to retreat to his place at the attorney's table, blaspheming at the top of his voice.

"Sit down and be quick about it," said Judge Morris sternly.

Prisoner Curses Judge.

"You go to [illegible]—you," was the [illegible] who was quickly forced into his seat by Schofield and Dayton. The spectators sat in astonishment at the spectacle of the crazed man who, with his long, straight, black hair streaming [illegible] more resembled a wild beast than a human being. The court then adjourned and Silverhorn was led back to the county jail with irons on his wrists.

The case will be continued today and Silverhorn will continue to conduct his own defense.

Judge Morris stated last night that had the man been an attorney he would have been punished in the regular legal way for contempt of court, but the only punishment that could be meted out to him was to sentence him to the county jail and this was unnecessary in view of the fact that he is there already.

Judge Morris Talks.

"There is some doubt as to my authority to deprive him the right of continuing to conduct his defense," said Judge Morris, "even after such an exhibition, but in any event I do not feel disposed to act in the matter until the present case is disposed of and shall not prevent him if he desires to continue his defense."

Silverhorn is a man about 35 years of age and bears in his face marks of the professional criminal. This is borne out by the records of his past life now in the hands of the police, which show that he has been a globe trotter in following his criminal career and has served three terms in the penitentiaries of this country, China and Germany.

Abuse of Injunction.

[illegible] abuse of injunction [illegible] regards the [illegible] labor and capital [illegible] report should [illegible] guidance of [illegible] officers [illegible] can do little [illegible] said in my last message [illegible] Congress. Even though it were possible [illegible] consider it most unwise to abolish the use of the process of injunction.

It is necessary [illegible] may maintain their [illegible] order that they may [illegible] check disorder and violence. The judge who uses it [illegible] but who, when the need arises, uses it fearlessly, confers the greatest service upon our people, and his [illegible] usefulness as a public servant [illegible] be heartily recognized. But there is no question in my mind that [illegible] been used heedlessly and [illegible] and that some of the [illegible] great and [illegible] wrong upon those [illegible] indefensible [illegible] peacefully [illegible] [illegible] any employer [illegible] acting in good faith [illegible] their employment.

It is all wrong [illegible] actions of labor organizations [illegible]

The Interstate [illegible] Moreover [illegible] whenever [illegible] believe that [illegible] ought not to be made without investigation, it should have [illegible] to issue an order prohibiting [illegible] examination by the commission.

The Interstate Commerce commission should be provided with [illegible] means to make a physical valuation [illegible] to which it deems this valuation necessary. In some form the federal government should exercise [illegible] over the financial operations [illegible] railroads.

Control of Railways.

I think that [illegible] most also assume [illegible] control over the physical operation of railways in the handling of interstate [illegible] in order to [illegible] of necessity the proper [illegible] traffic [illegible] I think it must also have authority to determine the conditions upon which [illegible] interstate railways. It [illegible] that the commission should [illegible] in particular instances, to determine the schedule upon which perishable commodities shall be moved.

Superficially it may seem that the laws, the passage of which I herein again advocate for I have repeatedly advocated them before, are not connected. But in reality they are connected. Each and every one of these laws if enacted, would represent part of the campaign to make the class of great property holders realize that property has its duties no less than its rights. When the courts guarantee to the employer, as they should, the rights of the employer and to property the rights of property, they should no less emphatically make it evident that they will exact from property and from the employer the duties which should [illegible] rights; and hitherto our laws have failed in precisely this point of enforcing the performance of duty by the man of property toward the man who works for him, by the man of great wealth, especially if he uses that wealth in corporate form, toward the investor, the wageworker, and the general public.

I do not know whether it is possible, but if possible, it is certainly desirable that in connection with measures to restrain stock watering and overcapitalization, there should be measures taken to prevent at least the grosser forms of gambling in securities and commodities, such as making large sales of what men do not possess and "cornering" the market. Legitimate purchases of commodities and of stocks and securities for investment have no connection whatever with purchases of stocks or other securities or commodities on a margin for speculative and gambling purposes. There is no moral difference between gambling at cards or in lotteries or on the race track and gambling in the stock market.

Attacks on Administration.

The attacks by the great corporations on the administration's actions have been given a wide circulation throughout the country, in the newspapers and otherwise, by those writers and speakers who, consciously or unconsciously, act as the representatives of predatory wealth—of the wealth accumulated on a giant scale by all forms of iniquity, ranging from the oppression of wageworkers to unfair and unwholesome methods of crushing out competition and to defrauding the public by stock jobbing and the manipulation of securities. Certain wealthy men of this stamp, whose conduct should be abhorrent to every man of ordinarily decent [illegible] and who [illegible] the hideous wrong of teaching our young men that phenomenal business success must ordinarily be based on dishonesty, have during the last few months made it apparent that they have banded together to work for a reaction. Their endeavor is to overthrow and discredit all who honestly administer the law, to prevent any additional legislation which would check and restrain them, and to secure if possible a freedom from all restraint which will permit every unscrupulous wrongdoer to do what he wishes unchecked provided he has enough money. The only way to counteract the movement in which these men are engaged is to make clear to the public just what they have done in the past and just what they are seeking to accomplish in the present.

The administration and those who support its views are not only not engaged in an assault on property, but are strenuous upholders of property rights.

There are ample material rewards for those who serve with fidelity the [illegible] of [illegible] but they are dearly paid for by the people who permit their representatives, whether in public life, in the press, or in the colleges where their young men are taught, to preach and to practice that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor.

Brazen Protests.

[illegible] of these attacks upon the effort to secure honesty in business and in polities is well expressed in brazen protests against any effort [illegible] of [illegible] proved that it is [illegible] unwarranted, and [illegible] business panic [illegible] such effort [illegible] The [illegible] is precisely as great [illegible] gambling establishment [illegible] gambling establishment [illegible] New York [illegible] San Francisco has just been [illegible]

The "business" [illegible] movement [illegible] is the kind of business which [illegible] It is the kind of business which has tended to make the very name "high finance" a term of scandal to which all honest American men of business should join in putting an end. The special pleaders for business dishonesty, in denouncing the present administration for enforcing the law against the huge and corrupt corporations which have defied the law, also denounce it for endeavoring to secure sadly needed labor legislation [illegible] law [illegible] employers [illegible] liable for injuries to their employes.

"Square Deal."

The laws must in the future be administered as they are now being administered, so that the department of justice shall continue to be what it now is, [illegible] department of justice, where so far as [illegible] permits justice is [illegible] to great and small, rich and poor, weak and strong.

It is especially necessary to secure to the representatives of the national government full power to deal with the great corporations engaged in interstate commerce, and above all with the great interstate common carriers. Our people should clearly recognize that while there [illegible] in dealing with these great corporations, these difficulties must be faced and one of three courses followed. The first course is to abandon all effort to oversee and control their actions in the interest of the general public and to permit a return to the utter lack of control which would obtain if they were left to the common law. I do not for one moment believe that our people would tolerate this position. The extraordinary growth of modern industrialism has rendered the common law, which grew up under and was adapted to deal with totally different conditions, in many respects inadequate to deal with the new conditions. These new conditions make it necessary to shackle cunning as in the past we have shackled force.

The second and third courses are to have the regulation undertaken either by the nation or by the states. Of course in any event both the national government and the several state governments must do each its part, and each can do a certain amount that the other can not do, while the only really satisfactory results must be obtained by the representatives of the national and state governments working heartily together within their respective spheres.

Innocent Suffer.

We have just passed through two months of acute financial stress. At any such time it is a sad fact that entirely innocent people suffer from no fault of their own; and everyone must feel the keenest sympathy for the large body of honest business men, of honest investors, of honest wage-workers, who suffer because involved in a crash for which they are in no way responsible. At such a time there is a natural tendency on the part of [illegible] but there is no [illegible] There is no nation so absolutely sure of ultimate success as ours.

Of course we shall succeed. Ours is a nation of masterful energy, with a [illegible] domain, and it feels [illegible] the thrill which comes to those who know that they possess the future. We are not cast down by the fear of failure. We are upheld by the confident hope of ultimate triumph.

cure the enforcement of the law against illegal attempts to monopolize, and the various devices resorted to in unlawful restraint of trade. In my judgment, the most effective course is explicit definition of what is wrong and adequate punishment of the guilty. Such laws, like laws in general, which are definite and supported by public sentiment, are to a very large extent self-executing. That is, they are generally obeyed.

I am not in favor of punishment in the shape of fines upon corporations, except for minor offenses. The burden of fines, imposed upon such corporations, is either transferred to the public or is borne by stockholders, the innocent as well as the guilty. Nor am I impressed by the argument that American juries will generally be indisposed to convict where the evidence is clear, because the crime is punished by imprisonment of the offenders. But if the law be definite and the evidence warrants the prosecution of the [illegible] to the jury, it is better, in my judgment, that the responsibility for failure to convict should lie with the jury, than that the conviction should be followed by penalties which are either inadequate or bear unjustly upon those who have had no complicity in the offense.

Opposes Arbitrary Action.

I do not believe in arbitrary action. We desire prosperity. We are anxious that there should be fair opportunities for all the workers of the land for the extension of industry and commerce, and that there should be the widest diffusion of blessings among a contented people.

To attain these ends, the rule of the people must be the rule of reason, and every effort must be dominated by the sense of justice. We must be patient, impartial and thorough; investigation must precede action; good will must displace passion; and the sole motive must be to seek the truth and to do the right.

Fellow Republicans! I do not come before you in any spirit of rivalry or self-seeking. There are many Republicans who, by virtue of their character and distinguished services, are worthy of the highest honor the party can bestow. I ask no favor and I have no claim. I desire that the party shall act for its best interest.

Will Be Hard-Fought Battle.

We must not underestimate the labors of the next campaign. It will be a hard-fought battle. We cannot expect victory unless we are united, and nothing should be done to imperil success in this state. I appeal to you in the name of the party, to which you are all loyal, to forget every personal difference and to make the work which precedes the convention a fitting preparation for the united effort which will be later essential.

IS FORAKER "DOWN AND OUT"

THESE [illegible] the national [illegible] taken [illegible] who has charge of the [illegible] keeping the mails full [illegible] and [illegible] Hanna [illegible] the [illegible] President [illegible] world [illegible] managers [illegible] working [illegible] public [illegible] expect [illegible]

[illegible] the case [illegible] Supreme Court [illegible] which [illegible] called down [illegible]

SUPREME COURT'S DECISION [illegible] law was [illegible] was alleged to be unfair to the Foraker men. But the Supreme Court has upheld this contention and now it is almost a [illegible] at the [illegible] of the redoubtable Senator [illegible] before them. It [illegible] that the Republican voters of Ohio [illegible] Taft mainly because the [illegible] Roosevelt administration—to the beginning of the present fight Foraker controlled the [illegible] course the politicians were for him and against Taft, but they have been [illegible] by the strength of popular opinion and now Foraker finds himself with his back to the wall fighting single-handed against an enemy of overwhelming strength.

If Senator Foraker is wise he will gracefully accept the inevitable and [illegible] with his party and if the Taft men are wise they will accept his surrender—assuming that he does surrender—with magnanimity. The fight has already [illegible] too much bitterness [illegible] both factions [illegible] November [illegible] There ought to be no more talk about punishing Foraker by retiring him from the Senate. He is a statesman of long experience [illegible] over [illegible] political [illegible] If driven into a corner and compelled to fight for his political existence [illegible] would do enough damage [illegible] nominating [illegible] and election [illegible]

Secretary Taft is not credited with being much of a politician but he is the possessor of a large fund of common sense and the chances are that as soon as [illegible] he will put a sudden check [illegible] of all Ohio [illegible] He knows as well as anybody that if he can't have Foraker's active support it is at least better [illegible] him [illegible] neutral during the campaign [illegible] knifing the ticket.

THE AMERICAN BATTLESHIPS

WITH the arrival of the battleships [illegible] Punta Arenas [illegible] Straits of Magellan the first half of the long voyage to San Francisco is completed according to schedule. Thus far no mishap has befallen the warships—so far as is known other than the imaginary troubles [illegible] by some of the correspondents.

Though the movement of the battleship fleet is the greatest feat of the kind ever attempted by any nation and transfers probably 80 per cent of the naval strength of the United States to Pacific waters, it does not mean that the Atlantic coast is [illegible] wholly unprotected. Indeed there will be nine in Atlantic waters, a larger force than that which [illegible] Spain, though it would be of small value in a war with a first-class power.

Including all vessels built and building the United States Navy now has a total of thirty battleships, but from this list must be deducted the old Texas, veteran of the Spanish war, which is now [illegible] as obsolete. Of the twenty-nine sixteen are [illegible] en route to the Pacific Coast. They are the [illegible] Illinois, Maine, Missouri, Ohio, Kearsarge, Kentucky, New Jersey, Virginia, Georgia, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Louisiana, Kansas, Vermont and Minnesota. Two other battleships, the [illegible] and Nebraska, are already in the Pacific. The remaining vessels of this class in commission are all old craft which took part in the [illegible] Spain—the Oregon, Massachusetts, Indiana and Iowa.

[illegible] battleships are now under construction, [illegible] are practically completed. These [illegible] the Michigan and South Carolina which are about one third completed and the Delaware and North Dakota, the keels of which were only laid last month. The last two vessels are to be the Dreadnoughts of the American Navy. Their speed will be twenty-one knots an hour, which is two knots faster than any of the others, and each of them will carry ten 12-inch guns.

The battleships that could be brought into service on the Atlantic Coast in case of sudden necessity are the five survivors of the Spanish war and the three new ones which are [illegible] Added to these are several [illegible] monitors and small vessels [illegible] which would make a fleet capable of [illegible] good fight. But of course there is no [illegible] danger in that direction [illegible] warship ascending Fountain Creek and bombarding Colorado Springs. The best authorities seem agreed that the next naval war will [illegible] in the Pacific [illegible] then [illegible]

Now it is said that [illegible] signing his [illegible] president of the Carnegie [illegible] New York financiers [illegible] Western [illegible] than the story that he [illegible] the fun of playing the political game.

CLERKS

Of course Mr. Bernard Shaw [illegible] writes in his smart way in ridicule of their lives. It is Mr. Shaw's pose to despise the useful and the commonplace, but most decent people in the civilized world must be satisfied with useful and commonplace lives. It [illegible] must work for wages and [illegible] until death releases them from earthly cares.

It is worth while [illegible] to consider [illegible] the earners of modest salaries are not quite the unhappiest folks in the world. Their burden of responsibility is minimized and the routine of their existence is not unwholesome. Charles Lamb fretted and fumed against routine and restraint all the years of his service at the India house and built his imperishable monument, the "Essays of Elia," in his hours of leisure, while after his release, on a pension, a comparatively young man, he accomplished nothing. We would not however advise clerks as a general thing to spend their small leisure trying to write essays or in any other literary occupation. There are plenty of books, and a little recreation is desirable.

The clerks and the merchant are equally useful to the community. The bookkeepers calling is as honorable as the soldiers, the musicians or the paradoxical humorists. Of course it was well that Mr. Shaw should get out of his clerkship, as he tells us he did in the article summarized in our wireless dispatches yesterday, and naturally another young man was waiting to take it. The true way to improve society is not to make people more discontented than they already are. But who expects Mr. Shaw, or any of his kind, to reform society or do any good whatever?

THE COON SONG

May Irwin Says It Is Here to Stay, and She Ought to Know, Although She Has Grown So Domestic of Late.

Writing Allen in The Chicago Record-Herald

SMOKE up. I like the odor of a cigar. That is one of the few things that makes me wish sometimes I were a man. Not that I want to smoke, but I would like the mere privilege of smoking without comment if I cared to. And with a manner quite as hearty [illegible] speech May Irwin motioned to a seat in her parlor at the St. James [illegible] afternoon out in Omaha when it was [illegible] outside that you and your sister Flo entertained [illegible] one afternoon with Rose Marie and other songs of Hutton and of Ronald Tolstoi and other [illegible] sentimental ballads.

[illegible] I remember [illegible] reminded me of it because I hate to think that the [illegible] forgetfulness of the [illegible] sort of songs that one ought to [illegible] coon song [illegible]

Doesn't Dislike the Music.

I didn't dislike the music—I loved [illegible] I am very fond of Spanish music and the modern coon song is simply a Spanish song in double [illegible] but [illegible] songs [illegible] of some colored [illegible] that we would think of glorifying [illegible] song if she were white.

But it is one of the penalties of familiarity. You remember what the poet wrote about 'Vice is a monster of such hideous mien' etc. Well I suppose it is the same thing about coon songs. I have sung them so many a time and oft that I suppose I have become used to them and the singing is no longer disagreeable. That is if they be good ones.

"Do you think that the coon song will ever become extinct?"

"No, I do not. They are not in such great vogue as they were a few years ago, but a good coon song goes as well [illegible] It is the bad coon song that [illegible] and the majority of [illegible] The good [illegible] will live [illegible] I believe. There is too much [illegible] and real humor in the good [illegible] popularity to ever wear out."

How about vaudeville? What is its future?

Then there was a parting of the lips and a show of gleaming teeth and a general appearance of [illegible] amusement [illegible] Then the lips [illegible] attracted in serious consideration.

Ought to be Qualified

"Well I suppose [illegible] but I [illegible] the old [illegible] and say the performances then were better than they are now people say 'Oh pshaw,' she says that because she is getting old. But that isn't it. [illegible] the young performers of today think only of getting their salaries. Such [illegible] art in [illegible] In the words [illegible] less [illegible] characterization now than there used to be. You [illegible] ever see a genuine [illegible] of any sort presented by the young people of vaudeville now. But I believe vaudeville will always continue to be the most popular amusement of the masses.

What about your future? A [illegible] play or more vaudeville?

"No [illegible] vaudeville [illegible] It looks to the outsider to be the [illegible] work and it is really the hardest the stage demands. I would rather be on and off the stage for two and a half hours in a play than [illegible] and try to entertain an audience for twenty minutes. It is [illegible]

But when [illegible] your play? I suppose I [illegible] at least a hundred [illegible] last summer, but not one of them looked good to me. Mr. Erlanger helped me all he could [illegible] play, but without success. Meanwhile the Keith people made me an irresistible offer and I accepted it. [illegible] not play another season in vaudeville even at the salary [illegible] getting now, and I haven't even [illegible] play. I have about made up my mind that I [illegible] look at one. I have so much I want to do at home that I am afraid I will have no more time for the stage."

"Do you mean to say that you are going to retire?"

At this Miss Irwin looked at and inquiringly at her husband, but he only smiled in return and declined to help her out.

She's Thoroughly Domestic

"Well I won't say that quick. But I am [illegible] thoroughly domestic in my tastes that I am afraid that if I do stay away from the stage for a year I will never want to go back to it. Why do you know, I want to be doing woman's work all the time. Do you see what I was studying when you came into the room? That young man had scarcely finished playing over his songs for me a minute before you came in before I had picked this up and resumed my study of it," and she held up a magazine devoted to embroidery in one hand and a huge pattern for embroidery in the other.

This embroidery is my salvation when I am on the road. I am at it all the time. When I go out on the stage at Keith's to sing a song I carry it into the wings with me and lay it on a chair until I come off again, and I am sure about the number of stitches I am working on before I begin to dress to go back to the hotel.

I pay a great deal more attention to that than I do to these things, and then she showed a lot of formidable looking documents which proved to be proposals to the stockholders and depositors in a great financial institution in New York, which went down in the recent crash, to adopt measures looking to the resumption of business by the wrecked concern.

Her Money Tied Up.

I scarcely read them although I have several thousands tied up there. I don't know any more about it now than I did when I put my money in there and I can't work up any desire to learn. My thoughts are more about my home than about my business. And it's funny too. My friends all think I am such a wonderful business woman. But I guess after all I am nothing but eternally feminine.

And then when she referred to the fact that she was a little girl in short dresses when the misfortunes of her family caused her mother to put her upon the stage along with her sister and she was so young that she took it as a matter of course and never knew what stage fright was, it occurred to the writer that he was approaching dangerous ground and he might want to ask when that was, and he started to leave.

Apparently divining that which was in his mind the jolliest of comediennes who seems as youthful in spirits and one might truthfully say in appearance also laughed heartily and said as he was disappearing through the door:

You know that was in 1875.

HOLBROOK & PERKINS

ANOTHER TINY INFANT

GREENLEY BABY WEIGHED 1 3-4 POUNDS WHEN BORN.

Has Gained Only Four Ounces Since It Came Into the World on January 14.

By the close margin of four ounces Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Greenley of 14 East Las Animas street claim for their infant son the distinction of being the smallest boy ever born in El Paso county. Joseph Greenley weighed exactly 1 3-4 pounds and his height was less than 10 inches when he was born, January 14. He was grown a bit since then, now weighing just two pounds and being 12 inches high. The child is perfectly developed and is happy and healthy. Mr. Greenley is a conductor on the Colorado Springs and Interurban railway.

But the baby has a rival as a diminutive personage in the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Snyder of Manitou, born five weeks ago. For the last four weeks the baby girl, who at her birth weighed two pounds, has been rapidly growing in an incubator until now she weighs 3 1-2 pounds. Physicians believe that they will now be able to save her life, which was at first despaired of.

WANT TO COACH TIGERS

MANY WOULD LIKE TO SUCCEED PRINCIPAL RICHARDS.

Football Mentor of Last Three Years, However, Has Call on the Position.

"Bill" Juneau, Wisconsin star and former Colorado College coach.

Rheinschild, Michigan tackle and all western selection.

George Dutcher, former captain of the Georgetown team.

N. Buckingham, Tennessee fullback.

This is the array of talent that is after Principal Richards's job as coach of the Colorado College football team. While it is understood that the man who has drilled the Tigers for the last three years will be retained just as long as he wants to do the work, he has not announced his position in regard to assuming charge of the men for another year. It is not likely that anything will be done by the athletic board until it knows whether or not J. R. Richards is willing to take the Tigers in hand for another football season.

There is a goodly bunch of men after the place and from accounts the Tigers have the pick of some likely football coaches and players. Juneau, who was a teammate of Richards at Wisconsin, had the team during the season of 1904, and was popular with the men and fairly successful in his work as a coach. Rheinschild has made a great record as a tackle at Michigan and is considered by Yost as one of his best players. He was a general all-western selection this year, as he was two years ago. Dutcher is said to have made good as captain of the Georgetown team in such a manner that he would prove a good coach. Buckingham made a name for himself in the south last year, and is also anxious to come west to get into the coaching game.

The Chicago man is one of Stagg's all star western champions of the last year, besides being a track and baseball man of prominence. As he has not made formal application his name has not been given out, but he is a star of note, having been considered by the Maroon director one of the most valuable men on his team, both in the matter of his football ability and his spirit.

GEORGE J. HAGGERTY DIES

Brother-in-Law of O. E. Collins Passes Away in California.

Deputy District Attorney O. E. Collins of this city yesterday received word of the death of his brother-in-law, George J. Haggerty, of Riverside, Cal., a fellow graduate with Mr. Collins from the Wesleyan university at Salina, Kan., and afterwards professor of Latin and Greek in the same institution. Mr. Haggerty was known in this city, and several years ago was an applicant for the position of principal of the High School here. Some years ago his health failed, and he moved to Riverside to engage in the orange-growing business with A. P. Collins, father of Attorney Collins. The body will be taken to Mr. Haggerty's childhood home in Ohio for interment.

PORTLAND FIGHT IS ON

BURNS LOSES FIRST SKIRMISH AT CHEYENNE.

Main Forces Will Leave for Scene of Battle Tomorrow—How It Looks.

To attend the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Portland Gold Mining company, to be held in Cheyenne, Wyo., Monday forenoon, Irving Howbert, president of the company; Thomas F. Burns, treasurer; F. G. Peck, secretary; C. S. Chamberlin and Dr. D. H. [illegible] tomorrow for Cheyenne. James F. Burns, the largest individual stockholder in the company, will also attend the meeting.

That the usual fight to obtain control of the company will be made by James F. Burns, is a well-known fact. He has caused notice to be served on President Howbert, through the sheriff's office, to have all books and office papers of the company taken to the meeting for inspection of the stockholders.

In addition to the legal steps taken in this city, Murat Masterson, attorney for Burns, is in Cheyenne, where he went to argue, before the district court there, for an injunction to prevent the directors and officers of the company from adjourning the meeting before he (Burns) "has his say." Masterson was unsuccessful in his efforts, as he was unable to convince the court that there was any intention on the part of the Howbert people to exclude Burns from the meeting or to attempt to "gag" him while he was present. Attorneys Tyson S. Dines of Denver and W. J. Chinn of this city, were present before the district court to represent the Howbert people.

The notice served on President Howbert yesterday to have all papers, correspondence and books of the company taken to Cheyenne, is equal to a demand that the head offices of the company be moved temporarily to Wyoming, and it is not expected that any attention will be paid to it.

As to the outcome of Burns' fight to secure control, the general opinion among mining men in close touch with both sides is that the present administration will remain in control whether Mr. Howbert accepts the presidency or not.

HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Arrested by the Colorado City police several days ago, on suspicion of being the parties who burglarized five stores in that city, William McGee, aged 21 years, of this city, and Marion Chase, aged 19 years, of Colorado City, are being held on direct information, filed yesterday by Deputy District Attorney O. E. Collins.

The evidence against the young men has been accumulating for several days and yesterday Chief of Police Gregory found a pair of pliers left in one of the stores that had been entered, which was identified as the property of the Chase boy. Further evidence was found in the fact that the young men had been peddling goods similar to those stolen from the shops, and could give a very unacceptable account of how they came into their possession. The robberies occurred on different nights, and for some time were a source of mystery to the police. Among the places entered were the stores of Mayor I. A. Foote, W. E. Goodall and the Bell Wall Paper and Paint company. From the latter place jewelry to the amount of $75 was stolen.

The young men will be given a preliminary hearing in the justice court at Colorado City on Monday.

GIVES GOOD SPECIALTIES

"The New Black Crook" was the attraction at the Opera House last evening, breaking in on a week of melodrama which is being given by the Lorch company. The specialties were the most interesting events of the evening. Bessie Browing gave some clever imitations of Vesta Victoria in her song, "Poor John;" Anna Held in the "The Parisian Model" song, "Kiss, Kiss, Kiss;" Eva Tanqueray in her song, "I Don't Care;" Alice Lloyd in her song, "You Splash Me and I'll Splash You;" Eddie Foy in an "Orchid" song. Her work was entertaining. The other vaudeville numbers included the Donazettas, acrobats who did some good stunts and "The Budweiser Goo-ly-Woogs" in which William Welp sang a song with an original chorus effect. There were a couple of stage settings worth mentioning. The cast was below the average with the possible exceptions of Bessie Browing and William Welp. The chorus could not sing, but its did its best to drown the orchestra. The audience was quite small.

WOMAN ATTACKS MAN

Mrs. Ella M. Stevenson Arrested for Assaulting G. A. C. Duer, Well-Known Mining Broker.

For having struck her neighbor, G. A. C. Duer, a well-known mining broker of this city, with a club, Mrs. Ella M. Stevenson, wife of a Rock Island brakeman, was yesterday arrested at her home, 321 East Madison [illegible] and arraigned before Justice [illegible] Dunnington. She pleaded not guilty, furnished bond in the sum of $300, and will be given a hearing at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The assault was made Thursday night, as Mr. Duer was returning to his home, next door to the Stevenson place. Mrs. Stevenson, who suspected Duer of having reported her children to Probation Officer W. M. Reasoner for some alleged misconduct, met Mr. Duer and proceeded to chastise him with the club which she had ready in her hand. Her first blow inflicted a gash on his right temple and almost knocked him to the ground. Her victim, being a man 69 years of age and averse to fighting with a woman, tried to make his escape and ran to his own door, followed by the irate woman. According to her own story to Mr. Reasoner yesterday, she "hit him at every jump, and hoped he got all that was coming to him."

Mr. Duer, though badly battered up and severely bruised, was able to be about yesterday and swore to a warrant for the arrest of his assailant. The warrant was served by Constable Gillingham, who, receiving no response to his repeated knocks on the door, was forced to use a hatchet and chisel, but before he had time to break in the door was opened by Mrs. Stevenson.

The cause for the trouble dates back several months in the alleged mistreatment of Mr. Duer's boy by a son of Mrs. Stevenson, who, it is said, has been in the habit of threshing the Duer boy whenever the opportunity offered. Mr. Reasoner received information which led him to seek an interview with Mr. Stevenson, and this was taken as sufficient evidence by his wife that the informant was Mr. Duer.

COLD SNAP WILL CONTINUE

Lowest Temperature Yesterday Two Degrees Below and Colder Weather Is Predicted.

Zero weather prevailed at midnight, according to the weather bureau, and another drop in the temperature is predicted. The maximum temperature yesterday was 37 degrees at 1 (?); minimum 2 degrees below zero. Since the cold snap set in Thursday night, the wind has been traveling at the rate of 28 miles an hour, which, with a high humidity, adds to the intensity of the cold. During the coldest weather in January last year the thermometer registered 2 degrees above zero. The coldest weather ever experienced in Colorado Springs was in 1880, when the mercury fell to 33 degrees below zero.

The cold snap has extended to Cripple Creek, where the thermometer registered 7 degrees below zero at 7 o'clock last night. Yesterday morning at 8 o'clock the temperature was 3 degrees below zero in the gold camp.

Sells Raps Public Officers

Says Corporation Heads Are More Honest and Competent, and Could Run the Government More Wisely Than Those Who Are Running It. A Public Accountant's Intimate View of Modern Methods and Tendencies.

From the New York Sun.

Explaining that he based his statements on knowledge gained in many years of experience in examining books of account and affairs of the federal, state and city governments, of railway, light, power and other public service corporations and of so-called industrial "trusts," Elijah W. Sells, of New York, a member of the firm of Haskins & Sells, accountants, [illegible] in a speech in Newark last night:

"The men intrusted with the management of the corporations are better fitted to administer the affairs of such corporations and to exercise judgment in matters concerning both the investor and the public, which takes their product or utilizes their franchises, than are those men who hold public offices qualified to fill even their own positions, much less to undertake administrative control over corporations.

"The facts that prove this do not deal with the mere matter of honesty and efficiency. The organization of a public bureau is much less close, much less harmonious in its operations than the organization of a great railway or a great industrial corporation. The men at the head of such business organizations in practically every case are experts, working diligently in harmony and ready to work to the limit of their endurance with full and direct control of their subordinates. On the other hand, nothing can be more notorious—the results are obvious to every assistant who investigates them—than the fact that in nine cases out of ten the head of a public department spends most of his time promoting his political interests, and the employes, generally protected by the civil service regulations, are looking to see how little rather than how much work they can get into their specified hours."

Mr. Sells, who is president of the American Association of Public Accountants, was addressing the Society of Certified Public Accountants of the State of New Jersey at its annual dinner. Defending his right to make an estimate of the men whose business affairs he had investigated, he said that the position of the public accountant in respect to corporations and their management was always an independent one. Unlike the attorney, he was not expected to "talk" on a case. The character of the service was impersonal. All he could do was to tell what facts are, "and facts exist for his examination in form so tangible and so subject to other scrutiny than his own that even if he were willing to prostitute his calling he would never dare to do so. It is equally true," he added, "that the knowledge he obtains of the affairs of corporations is necessarily intimate, accurate and substantially complete." Then he told of his "impartial" conclusions, saying in part:

"I think I may say that my experience has taken me over the whole field of public and private business, and if I am to judge by what my eyes have seen it is the unassailable truth that almost any one of the men who stand at the head of our great business institutions is far more competent to run the government, and would run it more economically, more wisely and more honestly than any of those who are in the business of running government.

"I know as a matter of fact that the management of our great properties is generally intelligent and economical and that the management of our government bureaus is generally loose, irregular and frequently dishonest, and when I read the tirades with which so many of our newspapers and magazines are filled nowadays reflecting on the men whose genius is developing the country's resources, and when I hear the proposal of politicians, from the most eminent to the least, for the passage of laws to hamper and restrict the energies of these men on the theory that their integrity is open to suspicion, my mind inevitably brings up the contrast that I always observe between a corporation's way of doing things and a government's, as disclosed by respective records and books of account.

"For the purpose of this comparison incompetency and dishonesty need not be separated. Putting them together, it is my deliberate estimate that, judged by the highest standards prevailing in the best conducted corporations, there is less than 10 per cent of both among men in the management of corporations generally, and at least 50 per cent of both among public office-holders, and I base this estimate upon my experience as a public accountant."

It was at this point that Mr. Sells made the statement first quoted above. He then discussed "the effects upon great business industries of being hampered by government regulation as compared with the effect of being let alone," saying:

"The two greatest business interests of the country are represented by the railways and by agriculture, and they are particularly interrelated. Everything that tends to restrain capital from investing in railway enterprises, everything that holds back the extension of railway enterprises into new and undeveloped country, checks the settlement of new farms and the production of new crops.

"The manufacturer, on the other hand, finds his interests facilitated by the erection of his factories and shops in old and closely settled communities, where the transportation problem is already fully solved. So, note the comparison. In addition to a vast amount of state legislation in restraint of railways that began at about the time the interstate commerce act was passed in 1887, that evil enactment, with its subsequent amendments, ushered in the era of restriction and introduced the period of railway persecution by law.

"Prior to that time railway construction had progressed in line with the development of business generally, but since that day, notwithstanding the enormous increase of capital resources, the railway industry has fallen far below other lines of development, and with it also has fallen the agricultural interests."

The speaker gave figures to support this declaration and added: "The revenue to the investor from his interests in railways is far less than his revenue from an interest in manufactures. The average rate of net income on railway investments is a little less than 4 per cent, while the average income from investments in manufacture is something over 15 per cent."

Mr. Sells quoted, "and with earnest approval," a part of a lecture delivered by President Hadley of Yale in 1906, in which Dr. Hadley said that he was "one of those who look with serious distrust on each extension of political activity," and that he "gravely doubted the wisdom of some of the more recent measures passed by the national government."

In conclusion, Mr. Sells said:

"Christian socialism, the equal protection of the individual rights of all, the doctrine of the Golden Rule, is the only sort of socialism that should exist in a free country, where each man's endowment of industry and ability should be permitted to achieve for him that full measure of success of which it is capable.

"The prejudice that has been aroused against the men who have written their names largest upon the [illegible] of such [illegible] corporate organizations as exist in steel, in oil, in the telegraph and in other lines of industry; the prejudice that swept over the west in the days of Populism and that now seems so far to dictate the policies of both the great political parties that other existing controversies are forgotten and they are merged in attacks upon the business of the country, is a prejudice that is based upon two false assumptions—first, that the men of great affairs are lacking in integrity and, second, that the men of small affairs are over-supplied with it.

"I shall not say that the reverse is more nearly true, but I do say that almost every instance of great success in this country is an example of a combination in the man who has accomplished it of scrupulous honesty, great frugality of personal expenditure during the years of struggle and unbounded industry, while as a commentary upon general good conduct of the masses as such, it is a pertinent remark that if during the last few years one of our largest street railway systems could have gathered into its treasury all the fares that were passed up to its conductors, together with all the fares for which it gave rides, but for which the passenger had contrived to avoid to pay, it would not now be in the hands of receivers.

"The loss to traction lines in all principal cities by the evasion and the dodging of passengers and by the misconduct of conductors, is estimated at from 5 to 15 per cent of their gross earnings. The aggregate loss to shareholders of traction companies throughout the country must amount to a great many millions of dollars annually."

Other speakers at the dinner were Edgar R. Brown, a member of the Newark board of education; Sheriff Frank H. Sommer of Newark; T. Cullen Roberts, secretary of the American Association of Public Accountants; Adam A. Ross, Jr., of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Accountants; Edward A. Duffield, formerly assistant attorney general of New Jersey; George Wilkinson, Captain Charles J. Allen, Victor Smith and Edwin E. Gano.

NEWTON FUNERAL TODAY.

Well-Known Pioneer Will Be Laid to Rest This Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Alda F. Newton will be held at the First M. E. church at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, Dr. W[illegible] having charge of the services.

Mrs. Newton was a pioneer, having come to Colorado Springs from Illinois immediately after her marriage, in the spring of 1872. She had lived here and in Denver since that time and had an extended acquaintance in both places. She will long be remembered for her many admirable qualities of mind and of heart. She was a distinctly intellectual woman, well read and full of interest in the most advanced movements of the day.

With a very remarkable memory, a keen sense of humor, and a ready use of language, she was an excellent conversationalist and a most entertaining and agreeable companion.

Devoted as she was to her church and her family, her loss will be deeply felt in every circle where she was known.

More than the ordinary share of human sorrow and trouble fell to her lot, and since the death of her only son, Arthur Wilbur Newton, in the summer of 1901, her health has been gradually failing. She leaves one daughter only, Edith Lillian, Mrs. Arthur Tuttle, a brother, James A. Flansburg of [illegible], Okla., and a sister, Miss [illegible] Flansburg of Colorado Springs.

Her last illness was exceedingly painful though mercifully brief, and it may truly be said of her,

"After life's fitful fever
She sleeps well."

Headache Sufferers

Do you want relief in just a few moments and no bad after-effects.

If so, you have only to take Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills.

If subject to headache, have them with you always. No harm can come from their use, if taken as directed, as they contain no opium, chloral, morphine, cocaine, chloroform, heroin, alpha and beta eucaine, cannabis indica or chloral hydrate, or their derivatives.

Ask your druggist about them.

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to refer to the Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills as the best remedy we have ever had in our house for the prevention and cure of headache. My wife who has been a constant sufferer for years with the above complaint, joins me in recommending Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, hoping they may fall into the hands of all who suffer."
J. I. BUSH, Watervliet, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails, he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

MUST GET OUT TODAY

REDLIGHT DISTRICT SOON TO BE THING OF PAST.

Inmates Leaving Town—Chief Gregory Ready to Carry Out His Orders.

Colorado City's redlight vanishes today. The last of the 10 days of grace given the inmates to leave the city has arrived. Already the notorious block on Washington avenue is becoming deserted, and as many of the former occupants have heeded the warning of the police, and others are preparing to flee before Chief Gregory makes good his orders to wipe out the district. In preparing for the flight, one of the inmates yesterday pawned all her personal effects in order to secure enough money to leave the town.

A number of the leading citizens of Colorado City have raised objections to what they term the "slurs and insinuations" contained in the petition that is now being circulated for the calling of a grand jury to investigate the conditions in Colorado City. City Attorney J. P. Jackson and Judge J. W. Cunningham deny that they asserted "that crimes of the blackest hue have been committed in our city," and state that they made no charges against the present city officers, but rather spoke in commendation of the mayor and city council in voting to obliterate the redlight district, and urged citizens to support the officials. They further state that only one speaker such as attempted to drag the question into politics.

Various citizens have expressed themselves in favor of a grand jury if it is sincerely needed. There is a feeling, however, that the beginning of better things is at hand, and that the abolition of the redlight district today will mean a future clean town.

ROWAN MADE NIGHT CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the police committee of the city council of Colorado City last night John Rowan, formerly a detective in the Colorado Springs police department under former Chief Alexander Adams, was appointed night captain of the Colorado City force to succeed John Hill, whose resignation was accepted.

Mr. Rowan is an officer of much experience and ability, and during his term on the detective force of this city he made a splendid reputation as an officer. Since leaving the force in Colorado Springs he has been engaged in special work under the Thiel detective agency, in which his thorough knowledge of this district proved of great service.

Captain Hill has accepted a position as engineer at a mine in Rhyolite, Nev.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

Clarence Bishop, a witness in the Scott-Parker cow killing case in the district court, against whom a charge of perjury was filed last week, was yesterday bound over to the district court by Justice G. R. Dunnington under bonds of $500. He is being held pending trial.

The case of Dr. J. H. Ferguson against [illegible] Genacher for the recovery of $37.75, alleged to be due for medical services, has been transferred from the county court to the district court owing to the fact that the defendant in his cross suit is asking for damages in the sum of $5,000 for alleged malpractice, which he claims resulted in the death of his wife. The claim being in excess of $1,000 resulted in the case being transferred.

The motion of City Attorney W. B. Price to have E. G. Coray, plaintiff in a suit against the city of Colorado Springs, make his complaint more definite, will be up for argument in the district court on Monday. Coray is suing the city for about $2,500, said to be due him as wages for superintending the construction of the city hall.

The evidence in the case of the Huston Lumber company against Lawrence Potter, for the recovery of several hundred dollars as damages for the death of a team in a runaway, was completed in the county court yesterday and the jury was instructed to bring in a sealed verdict if an agreement was reached last night.

The case of R. A. Burton vs. John and Ona Mosley is now in the hands of the jury, which was instructed last night by Judge Morris to bring in a sealed verdict this morning if an agreement was reached during the night.

AN ARGENTINE R. R. DEAL.

Reports from Buenos Ayres state that the contract for the sale of the Andine railway will be signed and referendum by the minister of public works, subject to final approval by congress. The sale price is £7,465,600. This sum will be applied exclusively to construction of extension of narrow gauge lines owned by the government and to complete that system, as the Andine line being of broad gauge, outlet and junction with that line is considered impracticable. The proceeds of this sale, not being considered as revenue, will be deposited in a special account for the above purpose, and will not be appropriated to cover ordinary expenditure nor for the purchase of armaments.

The wise man may know more than the sleeping infant about the great mystery of life, but as his evidence is purely circumstantial he would have just about as hard time proving it before an unbiased jury.

Societies and Clubs

The meeting of the North End W. C. T. U., announced for today, will be postponed until Monday afternoon, as many desire to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Alda F. Newton, a pioneer worker in the temperance cause. The hostess on Monday at 3 p. m. will be Mrs. E. D. Bond, 815 North Weber street. Mrs. Kingsbury, superintendent of the department of social purity, will conduct the program. Dr. J. L. Peavey will speak on "Who Is Most Responsible for the Double Standard of Morals: Fathers or Mothers?" Mrs. Frank Cotten, Mrs. R. A. Chase, Mrs. N. C. Crowley and others will participate in the discussion.

Mrs. Easton will entertain chapter C, P. E. O., at her home, 1517 North Weber street, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Anemone Literary club will meet at the home of Mrs. Moore, 4 McKinley place, Monday afternoon. The subject will be "Ruskin and Turner."

The Sunshine club will hold a meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the parlors of Unity church, prior to the meeting of the Unity club.

The ways and means committee of the Woman's club will meet this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the San Luis school.

A reception will be given by the Woman's club this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock to the members of the Colorado Springs Boys' club association. It will be held in the assembly room of the San Luis school. Mrs. Edwin A. Sawyer, president of the Woman's club, Mrs. James F. Sanford, president of the Boys' club association, and others will receive the guests. Mrs. Bernard is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The meeting of the North End W. C. T. U. has been postponed from this afternoon until Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock on account of the death of Mrs. Alda F. Newton, a former member of the union. The meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. E. D. Bond, 815 North Weber street. Mrs. C. G. Kingsbury, superintendent of social purity, will have charge of the program. Dr. Josephine Peavey will discuss the question, "Who Is Most Responsible for the Double Standard of Morals—Fathers or Mothers?" Mrs. Frank Cotten and Mrs. R. A. Chase will lead in the discussion following the talk. Miss Irma Hamilton and Miss Nellie Felter will furnish the music.

Mrs. A. Finney, 226 North Prospect, will entertain the East Side W. C. T. U. Wednesday. The last meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Fannie Fisher at which time Captain Warren of the Salvation army had charge of the program. The Rev. E. A. Liles gave a short talk.

MRS. MANNING BETTER—Mrs. J. H. Manning of 1929 Wood avenue, who has been dangerously ill for the last two weeks, was reported some better yesterday. Her children were summoned by telegraph several days ago, the daughter, Miss Bessie Manning, from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln; a son, Chester B. Manning, from Hartford, Conn.; and the other son, W. H. Manning, of 22 West Second street, Ivywild, from a business trip through the northern part of the state.

Woman's Nature

Is to love children, and no home can be completely happy without them, yet the ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass usually is so full of suffering, danger and fear that she looks forward to the critical hour with apprehension and dread. Mother's Friend, by its penetrating and soothing properties, allays nausea, nervousness, and all unpleasant feelings, and so prepares the system for the ordeal that she passes through the event safely and with but little suffering, as numbers have testified and said, "it is worth its weight in gold." $1.00 per bottle of druggists. Book containing valuable information mailed free.
THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Mother's Friend

Whose Say-so Is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone and exclusively as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives.

Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to the above rule. Their claim to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle-wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

WHAT THEY CURE. People often ask "What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' cure?"

Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is generally successful in affecting cures. In fact the "Golden Medical Discovery" is without doubt, the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In Chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid should be used for washing and cleansing out the nasal passages while taking the "Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific, healing effects upon the mucous lining membranes. This combined local and general treatment will cure a very large percentage of the worst cases of chronic nasal catarrh, no matter of how many years' standing they may be.

As to the "Favorite Prescription," it is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful, yet gently acting, invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, strong, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weakness and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is FREE TO ALL. A postal card request will bring it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce, over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

GOOD NEWS

Many Colorado Springs Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Colorado Springs are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

"Thomas N. McCullough, 321 South Weber street, Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "About twelve or fifteen years ago, I began to be greatly troubled with my back and kidneys. The attacks would come on very suddenly and for three weeks at a time I would be unable to turn over in bed. The kidney secretions were in a terrible condition. At times there would be [illegible] complete retention and when passed would be accompanied by severe pain. At others, they were very frequent in action, contained much sediment and greatly broke my rest at night. I used a great many remedies but had been unsuccessful in finding relief. I finally began taking Doan's Kidney Pills procured at the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co. I felt great relief shortly after taking them, and after completing the contents of the first box was completely free from any sign of kidney trouble. I can go still further and state the cure has proven permanent. I owe my present good health to Doan's Kidney Pills."

THEODORE LORCH CLOSES HIS ENGAGEMENT TODAY

Today will be the last appearance of the popular actor, Mr. Theodore Lorch, at the Opera House this season. He will give two performances—a ladies' matinee this afternoon, also this evening. The play Mr. Lorch will present will be the famous melodrama entitled "The Avenger," which is said to be one of the strongest plays of that class ever written. In the east, "The Avenger" is a great favorite, but this is the first time any company has ever attempted to produce it in the west. But, then, Messrs. Pelton and Smutzer, managers of the Theodore Lorch company, which has been pleasing large audiences the present week, are ever on the alert endeavoring to give the many admirers of Mr. Lorch something far above the average. There is plenty of excitement in "The Avenger," and there is likewise an abundance of pure and wholesome sentiment. The scenic investure is all that could be expected.

"THE MAN ON THE BOX"

The next big fashionable dramatic event will be the appearance of Max Figman, in the scintillating comedy success, "The Man on the Box," at the Opera House, on next Monday evening. Mr. Figman ranks among the really great artists of the present day stage, and he has a fortunate vehicle for his talents in "The Man on the Box," which was dramatized from Harold McGrath's book and has faithfully retained the story, a rather uncommon thing with plays taken from books. It was originally produced in New York city and had a prosperous run of over 300 nights, and but for the circumstances of bookings, could have finished out the year. Mr. Figman will bring with him a complete scenic production and a splendid company, including, among others, Messrs. Douglas A. Flint, John Charles Brownell, Frank M. Rainger, George Centre, Ernest P. Orr, Herbert Denton, Edward Johnson, John Pearson and the Misses Fannie Marinoff, Madeleine Dallas, Bertha Krieghoff and Berenice Bucklin.

PAUL GILMORE COMING.

To those who grew fond of Paul Gilmore as the "Yale" stroke in "At Yale," last season, the announcement that he will be seen in his play at the Opera House next Friday evening, will be welcome news. Paul Gilmore is the most distinguished young actor on the road today, and George V. Hobart, recognizing this, has written for him the most distinguished play of the season. He calls it "The Wheel of Love," a semiwestern automobile romance, told in three acts. The automobile does not play the leading part by any means, but it lurks around the corner, ready at a moment's notice to come to the rescue of the lovely maiden in distress. This new play of Hobart's contains all the elements of former automobile successes, with the addition of one of the most charming love stories ever told on the stage.

WAR AGAINST CONSUMPTION.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package. All dealers.

DEAF TELEGRAPH OPERATOR

Maine newspapers speak of Peter A. Foley of Portland as "the most wonderful telegraph operator in the world." Foley is totally deaf, an affliction which ordinarily would be supposed to make telegraphy an utter impossibility to him, but since he became deaf, eight years ago, he has developed what may be called a sixth sense, and by touch and sight he can detect the finest movements of the instrument and correctly interpret them. By means of the sense of touch in his finger tips he takes messages transmitted from the ends of the continent and can also read a message by watching the sounder. With his left forefinger placed lightly on the sounder he can take a message as accurately as the average operator.

MUCH ORE IN SIGHT

JO DANDY MINE IN EXCELLENT CONDITION.

Present Year Promises to Be the Best in History of Property Mill Being Overhauled.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—James M. Wright of the Jo Dandy on Raven hill is authority for it, that a recent examination made shows that there is now in sight in the Jo Dandy property 334,000 tons of ore that will run $5 a ton and higher. The shaft on the Jo Dandy has only been sunk to a depth of 700 feet, but the management will probably later in the year, begin to do development work. The new cyanide mill which was erected at a cost exceeding $100,000, is being changed about some and will be ready to begin the handling of ore before February 15.

The Jo Dandy mine is in splendid physical condition, and it is expected that an immense tonnage will be run through the mill, and the extra high-grade rock will be sent to the smelter during the year. The present year of 1908 promises to be the best in the history of this mine. The ore shoots are of tremendous width, and in some of them there are streaks one, two and even three feet wide that carry smelter grade values, and show the pure gold exposed on the rock.

STRIKE IN RIGI GROUP

VICTOR MEN SECURE A GOOD GRADE OF ORE.

Shows Quantity of Sylvanite, and Has Been Getting Richer as Work Progresses.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—A strike of considerable importance has recently been made, but the facts have not heretofore been made public. Lusk Mullin and Abe Flaacks of Victor, operating in the old workings of the Rigi group, where nearly a mile of shafts and lateral work has been done, began work a month ago and have now shipped out eight cars of ore that gave returns on each car of better than five ounces in gold to the ton. They are breaking ore from three to five feet wide in an upraise which is now nearly within 10 feet of the surface. The ore shows a quantity of sylvanite and has been getting richer as work has progressed. As soon as the ore is mined in the upraise, the operators will probably go below to try and find the same shoot, which undoubtedly extends downward, and which has been missed by former operators. The Rigi property has a large territory and is situated in a particularly good neighborhood, and the only wonder is that good ore has not before been encountered.

MILL CAPACITY IS INCREASED

Profit From Isabella Plant Will Be Greatly Enlarged—Company in Good Condition.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—The new addition to the Isabella cyanide mill, which for over a year has been handling nothing but dump rock which has twice been worked over, has been completed and is now running. The present daily capacity of the plant is 175 tons, and capacity is being utilized. It is understood that the dump rock is giving average returns of $6 in gold to the ton.

Now that the mill capacity has been increased, it is expected that the profit will aggregate about $10,000 per month. Heretofore the profits of the mill defrayed all of the mine expenses, and the mine was shipping out three cars of ore a day that was giving average returns of $42 in gold to the ton.

The Isabella is in splendid financial and physical condition. Rumor has it here that a dividend can be expected within a short time, and when they are started they will likely be continued for an indefinite period.

LUCKY GUSS GOOD PRODUCER

Excepting British-American Lease, Is Largest in District.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 31.—The big lease of the Cripple Creek district, excepting the British-American, on the Dante, is the one now held by Messrs. Moore and Seeley, on the Lucky Guss on Bull hill, which belongs to the Stratton estate. When the Stratton estate was thrown open for lease, there were innumerable applications, and upward of a score of leases have been granted only to be surrendered. It was the fate of the present operators to secure a lease and find the rich shoot which all the others were seeking in vain. At a depth of 300 feet these lessees have a small streak of sandy stuff that is giving values of $500 in gold to the ton, and a car a week is being shipped. The lease is considered to be one of the best in the camp today, and the lessees are promised a fortune.

STOCK MARKET PUZZLE

NO CONSISTENT TREND TO THE MOVEMENTS.

Dullness Changes to Almost Complete Stagnation—President's Message Affects Operations.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—It would be difficult to deduce any well-informed opinion of the outlook for business prospects or the future values of securities from the drift of prices and the insignificant dealings in today's stock market. It was assumed during the dull period of the morning that the appearance of the president's message was awaited, but when its publication was followed by even greater dullness, the conclusion was forced that no radical shifting of ownership of stocks was being prompted by the communication of the chief executive's views to Congress. Prices hardened immediately after the circulation of the printed reports of the message, but it was obvious that this was a professional movement on the part of those who had sold stocks yesterday in the supposition that the direction taken by the expressed animosity of the document were seeking the occasion of its publication to get their stocks back again. The late afternoon presented an appearance of almost complete stagnation in the market.

Operations in a few special stocks were without influence on the general market, and some of the most influential stocks in the list moved in contrary directions, illustrating the entire lack of any consistent trend to the movement. In one case this was due to the transfer of a considerable speculative account from one stock to another by selling the one and rebuying the other, sales of Pennsylvania being made against purchases of Reading. There was an attempt to arouse interest in the United States Steel stocks and to connect a rise in their prices with the consultations amongst leaders in the steel business, which was in progress in this city yesterday.

Preliminary estimates of the week's currency movement indicated another large addition to the cash holdings of the New York clearing house banks, although the flow of funds from the interior appears to be on a much diminished scale from that of last week and the week before. The end of the month requirements, coming together with the usual special demand of a Friday at the stock exchange to carry over loans until the following Monday, had a probable effect on the ease of the call money market.

QUEEN LODE IS LEASED

F. J. Shaefer to Operate on Ben Hur Property.

Frank Hervey Pettingell, president and general manager of the Ben Hur Mining and Milling company, yesterday leased the Queen lode, which embraces about one third of the company's Gold Hill property. The successful applicant was F. J. Shaefer, a prominent lessee on an adjoining claim, the Anchoria-Leland. Mr. Shaefer starts operation Monday, employing six men. He will cross-cut on the Midget vein, at the bottom of the Pettingell double compartment shaft, which was sunk on company account several years ago, when a depth of 500 feet was attained and 200 feet of drifting was done. The company's funds were exhausted before pay ore was encountered.

Mr. Pettingell is considering a number of applications for lease on the Little King claim, situated next to the Queen. Many veins carrying good values have already been discovered in both of the above properties.

TERSE AND TRUTHFUL.

From the New York Times.

A despairing debt collector decided the other day to corner his quarry at the bar of the Hoffman House, in the presence of a number of his friends, thinking that by this ruse he would so embarrass his man that he would either get his money in cash or a promise in mortification. Advancing gently he tapped the debtor on the shoulder and said:

"Pardon me, Mr. ——, when are you going to pay that small amount you owe my firm?"

The debtor spun around on his heel and glared.

"I'm no prophet," he roared.

The debt collector retired amid roars.

MATRIMONIAL BROKERAGE.

A Shanghai correspondent of a German paper writes: "The custom of arranging matrimonial contracts through agents or matchmakers has been practised in China for ages. This business receives support from all classes, for although the 'high' caste men in some instances select their first wives themselves, the additional wives are all secured through the agents."

WHEAT DEMORALIZED

MARKET BREAKS BADLY; DUE TO FOREIGN NEWS.

Heavy Shipments From Argentine Affects Prices—Corn, Oats and Provisions Lower.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Record breaking shipments of wheat from Argentina caused general selling of wheat on the local market today, which resulted in a break of more than 2c per bushel. At the close the May delivery was 2⅜@2½ below the close of yesterday, corn was off 1½; oats were down 1¼, and provisions 17½ to 25 lower.

When it was announced at the opening of the market that the shipments from Argentina were 5,048,000 bushels, the largest ever exported in any week from that country, the market broke badly. Large holders sold out, in some cases, apparently regardless of price. Pit traders joined in the selling movement, which resulted in an almost demoralized condition. All other grain gossip was ignored. Prices at the opening were about ½c lower, compared with the final quotation of yesterday, and the decline continued until May had touched 95¼, which was more than 3 cents below the close of yesterday. A small part of the loss was regained during the last few minutes of trading, but the close was weak. May opened ⅛@½ to 1@1⅛ lower, at 97½ to 98, sold off to 95¼ and closed at 95¾. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 448,000 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 4,336,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 362,000 bushels, against 334,000 bushels on the same day last year.

The violent decline in wheat caused a weak market for corn. The buying was scattered and mostly by shorts. A decreased inquiry for cash corn was also a depressing influence. The market closed weak. May corn opened ¼ to ½ lower, at 60 to 60¼, sold off to 58½ and closed at 58⅝. Local receipts were 370 cars, with one of contract grade.

Oats were also bearishly affected by the break in wheat, prices being off ¼ to 1¼. Primary receipts were larger than for the corresponding time last year, and this weakened the market. May opened at [illegible] to ⅜ lower, at 52⅝ to 52¾, sold off to 51⅛ and closed at 51¼. Local receipts were 118 cars.

Provisions were steady to firm because of higher prices for live hogs, but the market soon yielded along with grain. Pork suffered the heaviest loss. The May delivery closed 25 lower, at $12.22½; lard was off 17½, at $7.60; ribs were 15 to 17½ lower, at $6.55 to $6.57½.

NOTICE TO THE OWNERS OF PROPERTY TO BE ASSESSED IN PAVING DISTRICT NO. 3 IN THE CITY OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO. OFFICE OF THE CITY CLERK OF COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO, JANUARY 21ST, 1908.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the owners of all the lots and parcels of land to their full depth abutting on each side of Cascade Avenue between the Southerly curb line of Cache la Poudre Street and the Northerly curb line of Platte Avenue and to the owners of all lots and parcels of land upon the intersecting streets within one-half (½) block in each direction from each intersection of the streets intersecting said Cascade Avenue between the Southerly curb line of Cache la Poudre Street and the Northerly curb line of Platte Avenue in the City of Colorado Springs, being Paving District No. 3 in the City of Colorado Springs, Colorado, that in and by a resolution heretofore adopted by the City Council of the City of Colorado Springs, State of Colorado, pursuant to a petition therefor subscribed by the owners of a majority of the frontage proposed to be assessed for such improvements in said District, the grading, paving, curbing, guttering of said Cascade Avenue in and for said District No. 3 has been proposed. Said improvement of Cascade Avenue in said District is proposed to be by [illegible] the same to the official [illegible] by curbing and guttering with [illegible] and paving the District with gravel suitable for the purpose, the wearing surface to be five (5) inches thick and laid on a foundation of well rolled earth. Said improvements are also to include a park space of thirty-one and a half (31½) feet wide in the [illegible] of said [illegible] within the said limits and such water conduits and other incidentals as may be [illegible] in the specifications for said improvements, all of which are particularly specifically and at length appear by reference to the details and specifications for said improvements hereinafter [illegible]

That the said City Council of the City of Colorado Springs [illegible] caused the City Engineer to [illegible] and prepare full details and specifications for said improvements, pursuant to the petition thereto presented by the property owners and caused the City Engineer to make an estimate of the cost of such improvements, together with a map of said District and a schedule showing the approximate amounts to be assessed upon each piece of property and [illegible] lot or parcel of property in said District.

That said estimate [illegible] a total of Twenty-[illegible] Thousand One Hundred and Ninety-eight Dollars ($2[illegible],198.00) for said improvements and said schedule shows that the [illegible] amount to be assessed for [illegible] is the sum of Five [illegible] for each front foot on Cascade Avenue and at the rate of One Hundred Four and [illegible] Dollars ($[illegible]) for [illegible] one hundred and ninety (190) feet of frontage on the intersecting streets.

That the cost of said improvements, if authorized and constructed, will be due and payable within thirty (30) days of the publication of the [illegible] or at the election of the owner of the property [illegible], may be payable in ten equal annual installments [illegible] The first of which installments shall be due and payable in one year from the [illegible] date of the [illegible] ordinance [illegible] by the laws of the State general [illegible] or the first installment thereof are payable and the [illegible] remaining installments, successively on the [illegible] date of each of the nine (9) succeeding years thereafter, with interest meantime on all unpaid installments payable annually in advance on the same date at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum.

That said District is situated in the City of Colorado Springs, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit: North Cascade Avenue between the Southerly curb line of Cache la Poudre Street and the Northerly [illegible] in said City and the [illegible] between the [illegible] one-half (½) block in [illegible] each [illegible] of the [illegible] the Southerly curb line of [illegible] Street and the Northerly [illegible] line of Platte Avenue in the City [illegible] Springs, Colorado, and as [illegible] hereafter be approved by [illegible] to be known as Paving District No. 3 in the City of Colorado Springs [illegible]

That on the 11th day of [illegible] a [illegible] details, [illegible] schedule, will be [illegible] said City Council [illegible]

That [illegible] all [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of Colorado Springs [illegible] within [illegible]
